IMPORTANT INFORMATION

ABOUT MEDICARE PART D FOR PEOPLE LIVING WITH PULMONARY ARTERIAL HYPERTENSION (PAH)

If you or your loved one has been prescribed a medication to treat PAH, you may have questions about your Medicare prescription coverage options. The Medicare Open Enrollment Period is from October 15 through December 7, 2023. This is your chance to enroll or update your coverage for next year and make certain that your Medicare plan covers your prescription needs. The following information outlines key facts about Medicare Part D to help you better understand your options.

WHAT IS MEDICARE PART D?

Medicare is government-sponsored health insurance coverage for people age 65 and older, certain younger people with disabilities, and people with end-stage renal disease. If you're eligible for Medicare Parts A and B (which cover hospital and other medical expenses, respectively), you're also eligible for Part D, which covers prescription drug costs.

Part D plans:

- Help cover some of the costs of prescription drugs
- Require that you share part of the cost, including a yearly deductible and co-pay or co-insurance for each medication. Starting in 2024, patient out-of-pocket costs for prescription drugs may be significantly less than in previous years
- Are optional, but if you have Medicare, you must enroll in a Part D plan to get prescription coverage

WHAT SHOULD I CONSIDER WHEN I'M CHOOSING A PLAN?

Choosing a Part D plan can be a daunting task. Having ample coverage may be critical when it comes to a progressive condition like PAH. If you or a loved one takes medication to treat PAH and plans to enroll in a Medicare Part D plan or switch to a new one, consider the following:

- Does your new plan's approved drug list (also called formulary) include all of your medications?
- Are the monthly premiums, deductibles, and your out-of-pocket costs similar to your previous or existing plan?

DEFINITIONS

CO-PAY: The amount you pay as your share of a medical cost, such as for a doctor's visit or a prescription drug. It's usually a set amount. For example, if a prescription drug costs $50, you may have a co-pay of $5.

CO-INSURANCE: The amount you are required to pay as your share after you pay your deductible. Co-insurance is usually a percentage (for example, 15%). Patients will have to pay either a co-pay or co-insurance, not both at the same time.

DEDUCTIBLE: The amount you must pay for prescriptions or other healthcare costs before your insurance plan begins to pay.

PREMIUM: The periodic payment you make to your healthcare plan to continue your coverage.
