

ARE YOU ENROLLED IN A HIGH DEDUCTIBLE HEALTH PLAN?

Here's what you need to know about coverage gaps, co-pays, and Janssen support programs

If you're enrolled in a commercial high deductible health plan, your insurance won't start paying its share until you've reached your deductible

For 2021, the IRS defines high deductible health plans as plans with an annual deductible of:

 At least [$1400] for an individual

 At least [$2800] for a family

IRS=Internal Revenue Service.

High deductible health plans have a set deductible amount for your medications, so you will need to pay full price for prescription drugs and medical services until you've met your deductible. The amount of the deductible depends on the plan you've selected.

DEDUCTIBLE

You pay 100% of your healthcare costs.

AFTER DEDUCTIBLE IS MET

You pay co-pay/coinsurance. Your health plan pays the rest.

In-network, preventive care services are fully covered by the health plan. Contact your health plan for information on coverage policies for prescription drugs and medical services and how they relate to your deductible.

It's important to know that gaps in prescription coverage have to do with the insurance plan you've selected, and not because of your medication. To offset these costs:

- If you are taking a Janssen medication, help may be available through the Janssen CarePath Savings Program. Visit JanssenCarePath.com to learn more
- There may be other support programs available to help offset medication costs. Call 877-CarePath (877-227-3728), Monday–Friday, 8:00 AM–8:00 PM ET to speak with a Janssen CarePath Care Coordinator
